Highlights:

- We present a model of how pragmatic informativeness can be used to infer word meanings.
- Adult judgments about word meanings conform to model predictions.
- We show that preschool children can also use informativeness to infer word meanings.